ABOUT PHOTOS POSTS

Our volunteer lifeboat crews provide a 24-hour rescue service to mariners along the North west coast of Ireland. RNLI crews and lifeguards have saved over 142,700 lives since 1824 but we're more than a rescue service. We influence, supervise and educate people too. Our Community Safety teams explain the risks and share safety knowledge with anyone going out to sea or to the coast. And our international teams work with like-minded organisations to help tackle drowning in communities at risk all around the world.

The Stolwijk Rescue

On December 7, 1940 the Dutch steamer Stolwijk ran aground off the coast of Donegal in hurricane force winds. The crew of the Arranmore lifeboat risked their lives to rescue 18 men in the worst weather conditions that locals can remember before or since.

The men involved rarely if ever spoke about that night. It was not their way to seek praise or indulge in self congratulation.

The RNLI, however, recognised their exceptional efforts with a gold medal for coxswain Jack Boyle and silver and bronze medals for his crew, this honour was replicated with medals from Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. This is one of only three stations in Ireland to receive this accolade.

The story of December 1940 was passed down through the generations and in 2015, Jerry Early decided that it was time these heroes were given a fitting tribute. Along with his cousin John Gallagher they composed a song dedicated to the memory of the crew and their actions that night, the resultant song entitled simply, 'I'll Go'

Cuireann Matthew i láthair Seo Árainn Mhór

- In 2 hours

We've been working on a brilliant new mobile app for Arranmore Island and we're delighted to start sharing it with you all.

I can't wait to see what you think!

Táimid tar éis a bheith ag obair ar aip shoghluaise iontach nua d'Oileán Árainn Mhór agus tá lúcháir orainn é a roinnt libh go léir.

Ní féidir liom fanacht le do thuairim a fheiceáil!

A scenic view of a lighthouse on a rocky coastline at sunset. The lighthouse is white with a red lantern room, situated on a grassy hill overlooking the ocean. In the foreground, there are large rocks and vibrant pink flowers, likely thrift or sea lavender, growing on the rocks. The sky is a mix of warm orange and cool blue, with scattered clouds. The overall atmosphere is peaceful and scenic.

The background of the image shows a rural landscape during sunset or sunrise. In the foreground, there is a grassy field with a white wooden fence running across it. Behind the fence, there are several buildings, including a large blue barn-like structure and some smaller houses. The sky is filled with warm, orange and pink hues from the setting or rising sun, with some clouds visible. In the distance, there are hills and mountains under the same colorful sky.
